Challenges to meaningful patient engagement in medicines development and lifecycle

- Approaches are isolated and fragmented
 - No globally accepted guiding principles around patient engagement
 - No platform for routinely sharing experience
 - No platform for leveraging and integrating good practices
- ▶ We need to develop an efficient PE ecosystem

Meeting the challenge: Patient Focused Medicines Development (PFMD)

Established in October 2015 as an open, independent global coalition of health stakeholders committed to better patient engagement in medicines development and lifecycle

Goal is to advance a consistent approach to patient engagement, through co-creation and implementation of an efficient, measurable and reliable meta-framework for patient engagement that integrates the voice of the patient across the medicines lifecycle

Mapping and networking tool functionalities:

- 1. The search engine: search for inspiration, find your organization's initiatives or even identify and connect with relevant stakeholders to grow your networks and collaborations;
- 2. The reports. You can get an overview of the PE landscape based on various criteria: geography, medical scope, patient expertise and experience, medicine lifecycle etc., with special internal organization mapping features for members.

Key steps towards meta-framework and meaningful patient engagement
